Market position

PV GAS is the only company in Vietnam that owns and operates the national gas infrastructure system, including gas pipelines, processing plants, and storage facilities. According to PV GAS's Annual Report, the company supplies 100% of the country's dry gas market and approximately 60% of the nationwide LPG (Liquefied Petroleum Gas) market share. This monopoly position gives GAS strong market control and ensures stable cash flows with limited impact from direct competitors. PV Gas plays a critical role in Vietnam's energy security by supplying gas for approximately 10% of the country's electricity production and around 70% of domestic fertilizer output.

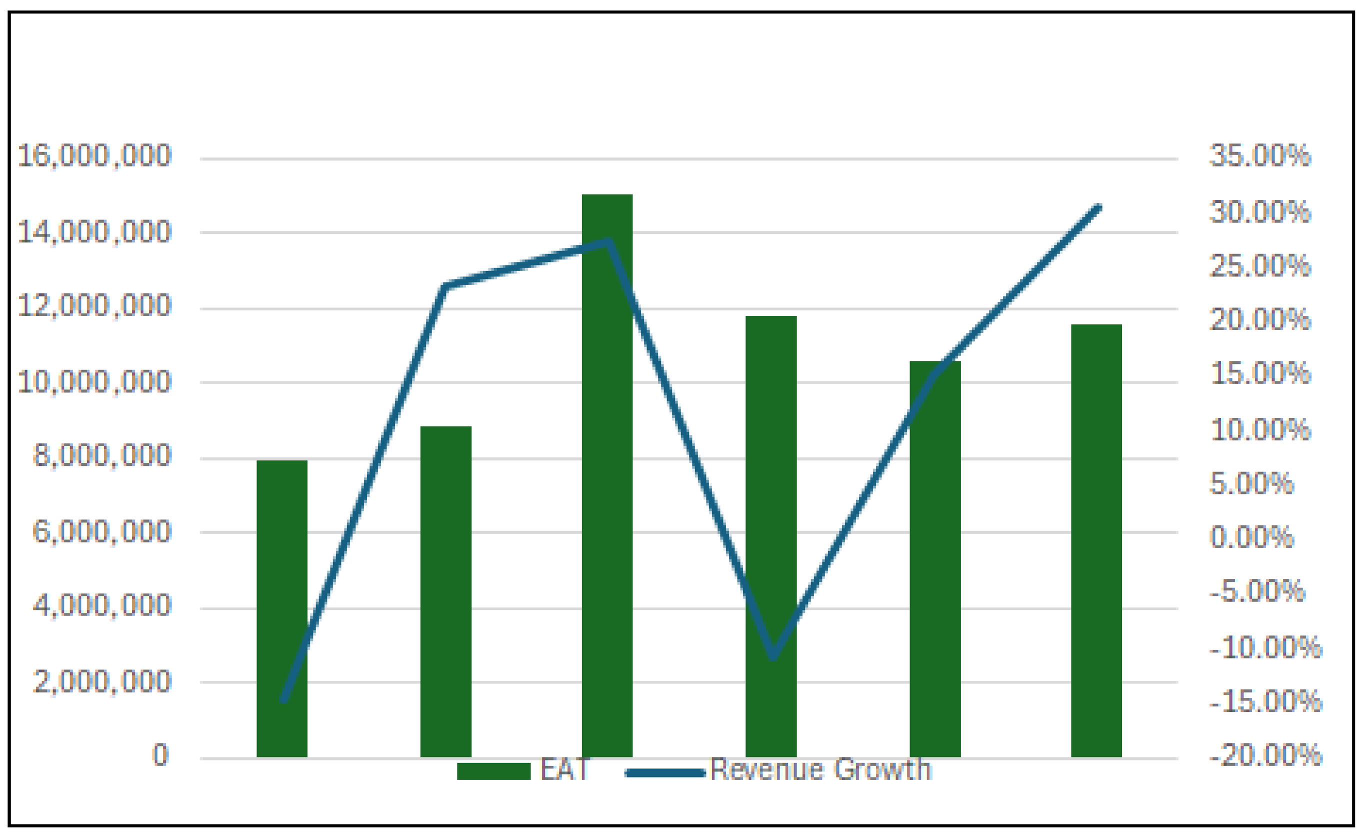
Financial performance

During the 2020–2025 period, PV Gas maintained relatively stable and positive financial performance. Revenue increased strongly during 2021–2022 before declining slightly in 2023 and recovering again in 2024–2025, reflecting fluctuations in global energy prices and gas demand.

Net Profit After Tax remained at a high level, peaking at more than VND 15,066 billion in 2022, showing the company's strong profitability and leading market position. ROEA and ROAA consistently stayed at relatively high levels, indicating efficient use of equity and assets, while EPS remained positive despite moderate fluctuations after 2022, reflecting stable long-term shareholder value creation.



TIME HORIZON

SUITABLE FOR MEDIUM TO -TERM INVESTMENT

During this period, investors may benefit from rising energy demand, major LNG projects, and GAS's leading position in Vietnam's gas industry. In addition, a longer investment horizon helps reduce the impact of short-term fluctuations in oil and gas prices as well as volatility in the global energy market.

1 TO 5 YEARS

RISK TOLERANCE

MEDIUM RISK TOLERANCE

GAS stock is suitable for investors with a medium-to-low risk appetite due to its leading position in Vietnam's gas industry, exclusive gas infrastructure system, and relatively stable revenue generated from long-term contracts. As a key player in the national energy supply chain, GAS has strong potential for sustainable long-term growth while maintaining stable cash flows and dividend payments. However, the stock is still affected by fluctuations in global oil and gas prices, changes in energy policies, domestic gas demand, and the progress of major energy projects, all of which may impact business performance in the short term.

Medium and long-term prospectus

POSITIVE OUTLOOK FOR MEDIUM TO LONG-TERM

Expansion of gas infrastructure and LNG projects

Continued investment in gas pipeline systems, LNG storage facilities, and key energy projects helps GAS maintain stable revenue sources and create long-term growth momentum.

Growing energy demand and gas consumption

The ongoing industrialization, urbanization, and increasing demand for electricity and cleaner energy in Vietnam provide favorable conditions for GAS's business activities, thereby supporting revenue and profit growth.

Monopoly position and sustainable development strategy

GAS owns and operates Vietnam's national gas infrastructure system and holds a leading position in the domestic gas industry. At the same time, the company focuses on expanding the LNG market and improving operational efficiency, enabling it to maintain competitive advantages and achieve stable long-term growth.
