5,200 STORES

Including The Gioi Di Dong, Dien May Xanh, and Bach Hoa Xanh

Dominate

The consumer electronics and home appliance retail segments, while aggressively expanding into grocery, pharmaceutical retail, and its EraBlue chain in Indonesia.

Business Model

MWG operates a core B2C omni-channel retail model, integrating an extensive physical store network (thegioididong.com and Dien May Xanh) with its e-commerce platforms. The company emphasizes superior customer experience, consistent after-sales service, and supply chain optimization to enhance operational efficiency and sustain competitive advantage.

Medium and long-term prospectus

MWG aims to become the leading retail, e-commerce, and related services conglomerate in Southeast Asia by 2030.

The recovery of domestic consumption is expected to serve as the primary growth driver, supporting more stable improvements in both revenue and profitability.

Over the long term (3–5 years), MWG's investment case becomes increasingly compelling as the company is well-positioned to capitalize on Vietnam's rising consumer demand and further expand its retail ecosystem.

Its advantages in scale, brand strength, and extensive distribution network are expected to sustain its competitive positioning over the long run.

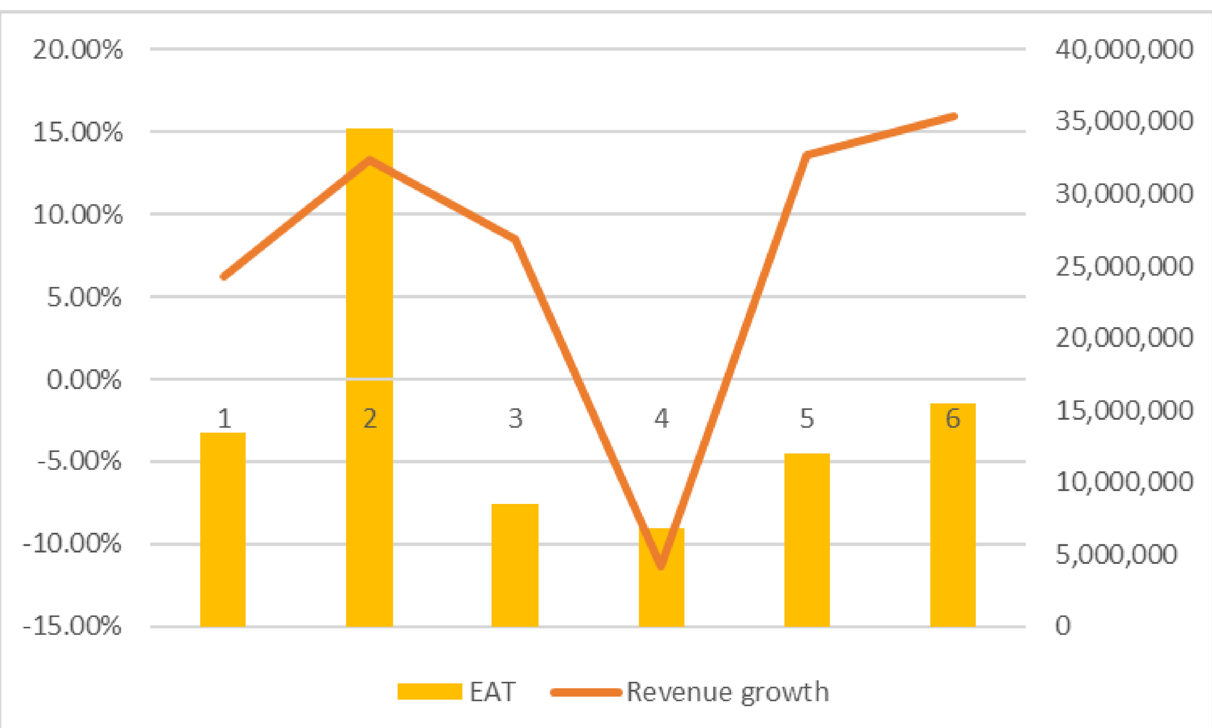
Financial performance

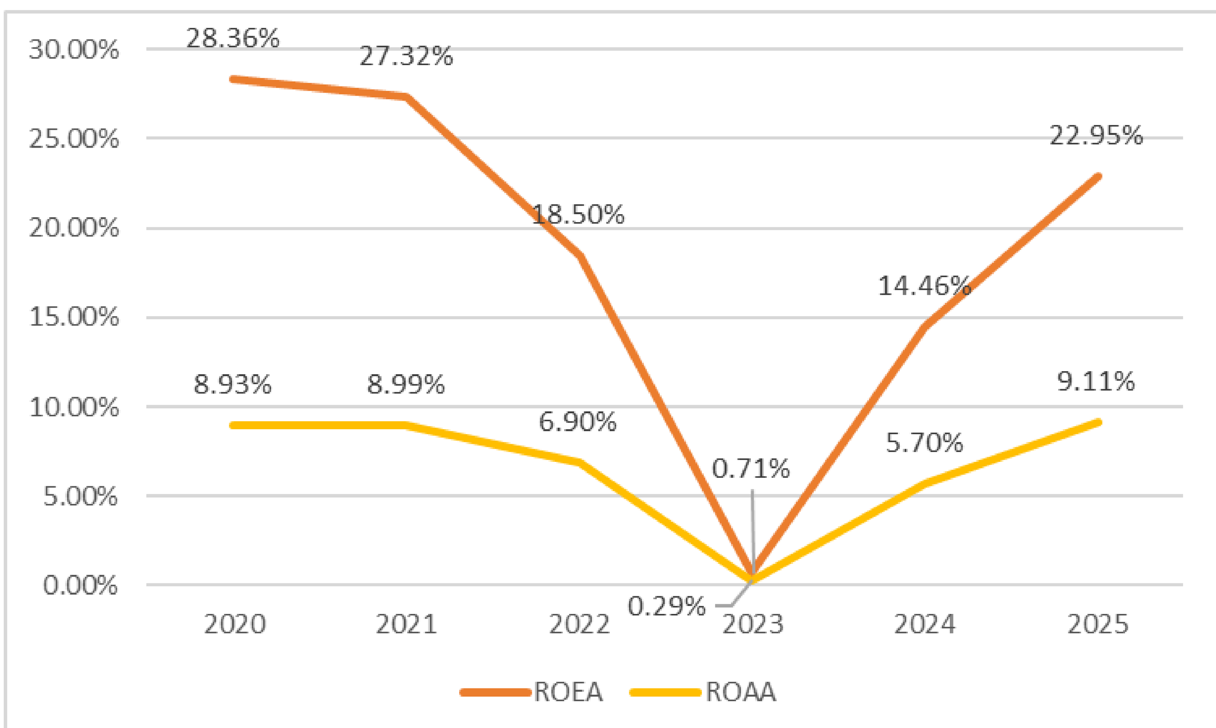
During the 2020–2025 period, the financial metrics of Mobile World Investment Corporation (MWG) exhibited pronounced cyclical fluctuations. Revenue growth remained positive from 2020 to 2022, before experiencing a significant contraction in 2023, reflecting the adverse impact of weakened consumer demand. However, the company demonstrated a strong recovery in the subsequent two years, with growth rates of 13.58% and 16%, respectively, highlighting its resilience and renewed expansion capacity.

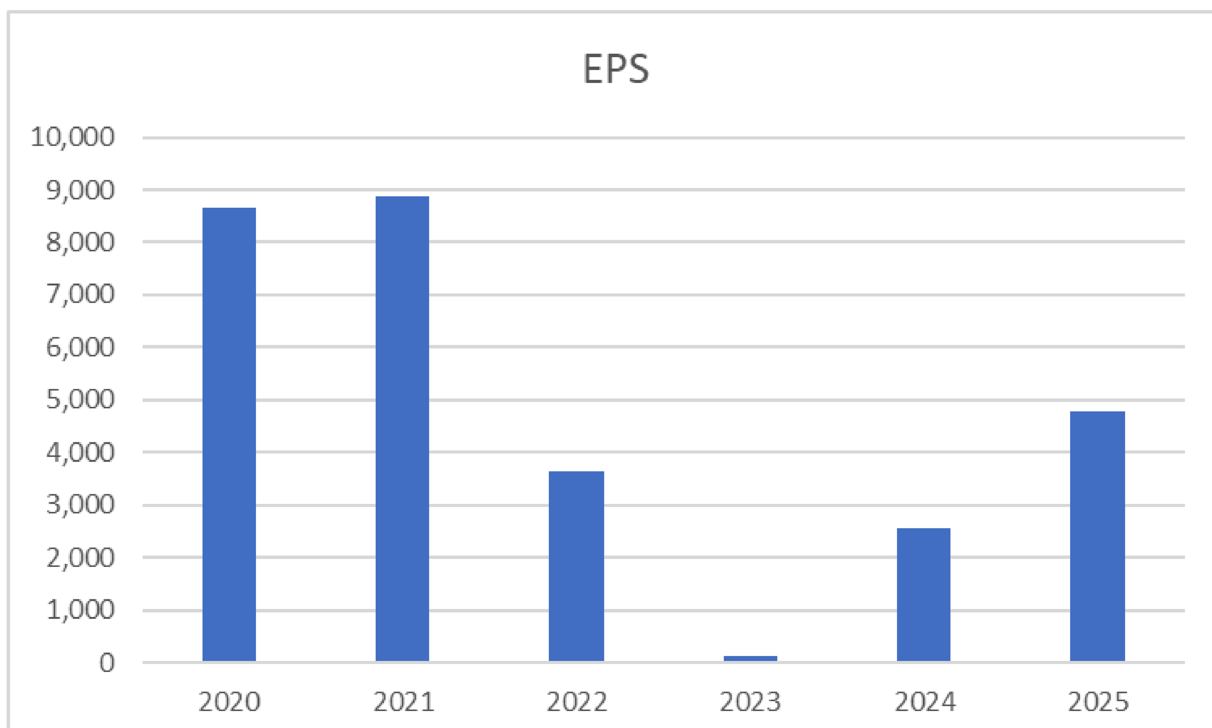
Net profit followed a similar trajectory, recording solid growth through 2021, a slight decline in 2022, and a sharp drop in 2023. From 2024 onward, profitability rebounded markedly, with 2025 delivering robust growth, indicating the effectiveness of restructuring initiatives and cost control measures.

Profitability ratios, including ROE and ROA, mirrored this trend. Specifically, ROE declined significantly from above 28% to just 0.71% in 2023, while ROA fell to 0.29%, signaling a substantial deterioration in asset utilization efficiency during the downturn. Nevertheless, both indicators recovered strongly in the 2024–2025 period, with ROE approaching 23% and ROA exceeding 9%, nearly returning to pre-downturn levels.

Earnings per share (EPS) also experienced considerable volatility, particularly declining sharply during 2022–2023 before recovering in the following two years. This pattern directly reflects fluctuations in net income and underscores the sensitivity of EPS to changes in business performance.







RISK TOLERANCE

MWG is characterized by a moderate risk profile. It is not considered a defensive stock, yet it carries lower risk relative to smaller retail companies.

The primary source of risk stems from the cyclical nature of the retail industry. In addition, MWG faces intensifying competitive pressure, not only from direct competitors but also from the rapid expansion of e-commerce channels.

TIME HORIZON

MWG is suitable for medium to long-term investment (2-5 years). Following the challenging period of 2022–2023, marked by weakened consumer demand, the company proactively undertook restructuring initiatives. As a result, profit margins have shown a clear improvement, establishing a solid foundation for more stable earnings growth in the coming years.
