Growth of Vietnam’s Capital Market

The continuous expansion of Vietnam’s stock market and the increasing number of retail investors are expected to support higher trading liquidity and stronger demand for brokerage, investment, and financial services. Vietnam’s potential upgrade to emerging market status may attract stronger foreign capital inflows, increasing trading activity and creating more opportunities for leading securities firms such as SSI.

Expansion of Institutional and Margin Lending Services

Ho Chi Minh City Securities Corporation continues strengthening institutional brokerage, margin lending, and investment banking activities to diversify revenue streams and improve competitiveness.

Strong Financial Capacity and Development Strategy

HCM’s strong reputation in research quality and institutional services provides a competitive advantage in attracting long-term clients and expanding its market position.

Market position

SHS is one of the well-established securities companies in Vietnam, with a strong presence in brokerage, investment banking, and proprietary trading activities. Supported by its affiliation with the Saigon–Hanoi financial ecosystem, SHS has built a broad customer base and maintains a competitive position in the securities industry. The company benefits from the long-term growth potential of Vietnam’s capital market and increasing investor participation, positioning it to capitalize on expanding trading and investment activities.

ROEA

Financial performance

EPS

3,639 VND – 1,551 VND

During the 2020–2025 period, the company experienced highly volatile financial performance, reflecting fluctuations in business conditions and market demand. Revenue growth surged by 69.17% in 2020 and 60.40% in 2021 before contracting sharply by 46.73% in 2022 and 5.34% in 2023. However, business activities recovered strongly in 2024–2025, with revenue growth rebounding to 36.38% and 84.23%, respectively.

Net Profit After Tax followed a similar trend, increasing from VND 754 billion in 2020 to a peak of VND 1,396 billion in 2021 before falling significantly to VND 162 billion in 2022. Profitability gradually recovered thereafter, reaching VND 1,343 billion in 2025. ROEA declined from 30.09% in 2021 to 2.09% in 2022 before improving to 11.28% in 2025, while ROAA recovered from 1.49% to 7.25% over the same period. EPS also rebounded from 306.62 in 2022 to 1,551.67 in 2025, highlighting the company’s strong recovery in earnings and operational efficiency after a challenging period.

RISK TOLERANCE

MEDIUM TO HIGH RISK

SHS is suitable for investors with a medium to high risk tolerance. As a securities company, its performance is closely linked to stock market conditions, trading liquidity, and investor sentiment. While SHS can benefit significantly during periods of strong market growth, its earnings may be more volatile during market downturns. However, its established market position and diversified securities business help support long-term growth prospects.

TIME HORIZON

MEDIUM TERM INVESTMENT HORIZON

The company’s performance is closely tied to the growth of Vietnam’s stock market, trading activity, and investor participation. As capital market development and market liquidity continue to improve, SHS is well-positioned to benefit from increasing demand for brokerage, margin lending, and investment services. Investors should be prepared for short-term market fluctuations while focusing on the company’s long-term growth potential.
